A FEW NOTES ABOUT THIS GUIDE

HOW TO USE THE GUIDE

This guide is broken into pages based on specific categories. Reference the table of contents on the previous page to find the printer or the production company you're trying to reference, and read through that page for my favorite sources!

SOURCES LISTED

The guide does not contain each and every vendor available within the categories included. Rather, it contains my absolute favorite vendors I trust and love! If I stumble upon a new vendor in a category, I will update the guide and send you the revised copy free of charge - so you are always in the loop!

WHOLESALE VERSUS RETAIL

Most vendors in this guide offer wholesale pricing to business owners. Simply visit the link next to the vendor name, and look for their wholesale application to apply! Wholesale pricing is often 10-50% less than retail pricing.

PRIVACY POLICY

I am so thankful that you invested in this guide. Please respect your investment by keeping this guide to yourself, rather than sharing it with a friend. If you would like to share - of course send them to my shop so they can choose to make the investment in their business as well!

AFFILIATE LINKS

This guide contains a few affiliate links to shops like Amazon and Etsy, which means I may get a small percentage of the sale if you make a purchase through that link (I think any way larger companies support artists is really cool!).

GUIDE KEY

REFERENCING THE KEYS & WHAT THEY MEAN

I want to make it as easy as possible for you to spot vendors in the guide who offer products & services you need and have values that align with yours. So, look for these icons throughout the guide next to each vendor's website!

OTHER ENVELOPE VENDORS I RECOMMEND:

WASTE NOT PAPER | http://wastenotpaper.com/

PRINTSWELL | http://www.printswellfulfillment.com/

· They offer envelope digital full color printing for their in-house envelopes

Pro tip: PrintsWell uses a different printer for their envelope printing, so often times the colors printed on your envelopes won't be an exact match to the colors printed on your stationery. That's why I used Indigo Ink for envelope printing instead!

· Add a few more weeks into your production process when working with handmade paper, to allow any adjustments in terms of the equipment and time needed to print or calligraph on the paper

· When you are ready to begin your project, I would recommend ordering about 25% extra paper than your client's final quantity needed for any printing or calligraphy mistakes

RIBBON, STAMPS, AND WAX SEALS

RIBBON

WHOLESALE OPTIONS

MAY ARTS | http://mayarts.com/

· They have a wide variety of beautiful ribbon options. My favorites include their silk (they have frayed edge and woven edge - great for weddings!), satin, velvet, and crinkle chiffon ribbon (the blue ribbon I often use!)

· If you're using the wax seal on the outside of your envelopes, make sure to upgrade to the professional grade adhesive to make sure they stay on in the mail!
· Wax seals require extra postage, so keep that in mind

DAY-OF DETAILS

DAY-OF DETAILS

Aside from printed stationery, where do you find popular wedding day details like koozies, napkins, stir sticks, and more? These are my go-to sources:

PRINT APPEAL | http://printappeal.com/

Print Appeal is essentially the mecca of all things day-of for weddings:

- Custom koozies in traditional or full color printing (pro tip: order the neoprene material if you're using full color printing as the sponge can show little fuzz pieces)
- Foil napkins, stir sticks, coasters, cups, foil playing cards, match boxes, and ribbon

Pro tip: Reach out to Brandon (sales@westgeorgiacornhole.com) for wholesale pricing*

4IMPRINT | https://www.4imprint.com/

· While they offer a wide range of products, their paper hand fans are great for wedding days, especially for outdoor weddings!

I mentioned a few of these earlier in the guide, but wanted to add them here again for easy reference!

STATIONERY HQ | http://stationeryhq.com/

· I order my custom wedding guest books from here!

PRINTSWELL FULFILLMENT | https://printswellfulfillment.com/

· Great for welcome box stickers, menus, programs, table numbers, place cards/escort cards

FABRIC & BACKDROPS

FABRIC & BACKDROPS

SPOONFLOWER | https://www.spoonflower.com/

. You can simply upload your designs for others to buy, and make a commission on those sales (11-15% of each sale). or, order fabric to sell on your own

· They print wallpaper, gift wrap (in rolls of 26"x72"), and fabric in a variety of materials and widths (I use them for wedding and photo booth backdrops!)

Pro tip: make your design artboard the final size of the fabric you are ordering for backdrops, and center your design on the artboard. I then work with a local seamstress to add a pole pocket across the top, and hem the edges.

CLOUD9 FABRICS | http://cloud9fabrics.com/ FEMALE

· Another online custom fabric printing company with an online marketplace!

STICKERSBANNERS | https://www.stickersbanners.com BIPOC

· Same-day shipping on vinyl or fabric backdrops!
· I order the 6'x8' size in vinyl (not too shiny!) with a pole pocket, but fabric would be a beautiful option if your client has the budget

Pro tip: You can either upload one design and have them create a "step and reeat" pattern for you, or you can upload a full pattern/design that fills the final length x width of the backdrop (what I did for the buffalo check one!). Make your design artboard the final size of the fabric you are ordering for backdrops, and center your design on the artboard.

WRAPPING PAPER & WALLPAPER

WRAPPING PAPER & WALLPAPER

STATIONERY HQ | http://stationeryhq.com/

· They sell wrapping paper sheets in a smaller, more affordable size than Spoonflower! (I personally use Stationery HQ for wrapping paper!)
· Their sheets are 20"x29" and are sold in sets of 5 sheets. I order the opaque sheets
· You can drop ship them to customers, but the profit margin won't be as high

Pro tips:

· I like to order 40 or more sheets at a time (if you're selling it wholesale, try to order 100 sheets at a time for the best pricing), and offer them in sets of 3 sheets or 6 sheets in my shop (the 6 sheet option is most popular!)
· I use this clear sleeve for 3 sheets, and this clear tubing for 6 sheets
· Ship them in mailing tubes like these or these

SPOONFLOWER | https://www.spoonflower.com/

· They print wallpaper, and have a great digital mockup!
· They also print gift wrap (in rolls of 26"x72")

PRINTED MINT | https://www.printedmint.com/

· They just recently started carrying removable wallpaper!

CHASING PAPER | https://www.chasingpaper.com/

· You could also consider a wallpaper licensing deal with a company like chasing paper, which would be a great source of passive income!

TEA TOWELS

COTTON CREATIONS | https://cottoncreations.com/

USE CODE SIMPLYJESSICAMARIEGUIDE FOR 10% OFF ONE PURCHASE OF $100 OR MORE, MAX OF $50 OFF

I recently switched to using Cotton Creations, and love their tea towels!

A few important things to note:

· Their wholesale pricing starts when you order 50 units of the same design, but I order 51 at a time because it bumps you to the next pricing tier which is even better! (ex: my tea towels are usually $3.31 when ordering 51)

· Their pricing is based on the artwork you upload (size of the artwork, how colorful it is, etc.) Start by clicking the "customize" button in the tea towel listing, then upload your artwork and click the "request a quote" button. Jessie will email you the wholesale pricing based on your design!

· I use the 15"x25" Craft American Basics flour sack tea towel, but you can order blank samples of the different sizes & materials

· Their turnaround time is a bit longer - normally 15 business days but it's closer to 5-6 weeks during September-December due to high volumes of holiday orders

TEA TOWELS

Pro tips:

When printing on fabric, especially flour sack fabric, I've found it's best to edit your artwork in Photoshop to make it a little darker and more saturated, especially if you primarily paint in soft pastel colors like I do!

Flour sack tea towels can often have random colored threads woven throughout the towels, as they are rustic in nature and are flat woven. This is why I personally switched to Cotton Creations – becuase I like to quality check each towel to make sure that the thread isn't on the front of the towel near my artwork. You can also sometimes pluck threads out with a small tweezer, knife, or scissors.

If you are using a drop shipping vendor, just make sure to have a note in your shop listings to have the disclaimer that colored threads can be normal!

And finally, make sure to take note of the materials each vendor offers to see which you prefer. Some are soft flour sack, some are slightly less soft cotton twill, and some are smoother polyester. If you have time, order samples of each to see how your artwork looks on the different materials!

PACKAGING OPTIONS

PACKAGING

Once you've printed your products, you'll need to order packaging supplies if you're not shipping. I recommend ordering:

Mailers for art prints & flat artwork

- Stayflat mailers for art prints (I use these for 8x10 & these for 11x14)
- White popover boxes for nicer prints/paintings (I use them for crest prints)

Larger boxes for lifestyle products or large orders

- Cardboard boxes (in natural or white) for shipping
- My go-to sizes are 5x5x5 for mugs, 12x9x3 for combo orders with 8x10 art prints, 15x12x5 for larger combo orders (ex: 11x14 prints & mugs)
- Mailing tubes if you sell gift wrap or prints 16x20 or larger (it's safer to roll them)
- Clear lid boxes for calendars (these have room for a calendar stand)
- White gloss jewelry boxes for flat ornaments (they come with padding!)

Extra packing supplies

- Crinkle paper, packing peanuts, tissue paper, tape, and more

Pro tip: Most packaging supplies vendors have really pricey shipping, because they're shipping you large and often times heavy packages! So I try to order inventory wisely and only about 5-10 times/year if I can! If you have one of these vendors local to you, you can often do local pickup either for a smaller price, or for free if you meet an order minimum.

STANDARD PACKAGING

While you can pick up USPS Priority Mail boxes from the post office, and grab individual shipping boxes from UPS, FedEx, office supply stores, etc. – you'll be able to get a better price per box/mailer/tube if you order it wholesale!

*And while USPS Priority Mail boxes are great (because they're free for you!), I only recommend using them for heavier/bigger products that you'll actually be shipping Priority Mail.*

Being able to offer cheaper First Class Mail rates to customers in your shop will increase the likelihood that they'll purchase from you, so it's better to spend a smidge on packing boxes and to get that order than to lose out on an order due to only offering higher Priority Mail rates for lighter products like art prints, tea towels, etc.

Pro tip: always order a spool more than you need - sometimes ribbon will be cut & taped at a couple spots throughout the spool!*

PACKAGING

AND OF COURSE...AMAZON | https://www.amazon.com/

Is there anything simpler than ordering from amazon? When possible I try to order most shipping supplies through the other wholesale vendors since the price per piece is better, but if I need something in a pinch or in a smaller quantity, I'll grab it from Amazon!

- Stayflat mailers for art prints (I use these 8x10, 11x14, 16x20)
- Clear sleeves for art prints and greeting cards (8x10 sleeves, 11x14 sleeves, A2 card sleeves, A7 card sleeves)
- Backing boards for art prints (8x10 backers, 11x14 backers)
