

community guidelines

2025

- your humanity is holy + you were born sacred — come as you are — this is your radical permission to show up as you need to each call, wear your mystic garb, your comfiest pj's, camera on, camera off — this space is yours — you are whole exactly as you are
- decolonizing/deconstructing: in this space we work to decenter the oppressive power structures of colonialism, capitalism, christian colonialism, patriarchy, etc etc — we will be “hard on systems, soft on people” as we navigate detangling ourselves and our consciousness from this space. we will also use gender inclusive + expansive language, as we work within a praxis that is anchored in our shared humanity, compassion, and care
- sacred space: we hold the stories shared here in sacred community, confidentiality and trust. all calls are recorded but what you share doesn't have to be
- trauma awareness — as we move through our time together, we will explore topics that may be activating, especially if you've experienced religious trauma. we'll work within the body to bring awareness to the nervous system and support you through it, and please know that this is not a therapeutic space, so self care will include making sure you're supported in all ways,

community guidelines

2025

- self sovereignty — practice exercising your no, and your yes. all assignments are optional, and meant to be expansive for you and your process!
- cite your sources, honor your lineage: we're in school (yay!) and we're doing spiritual deconstructing work (yay) — so lean into your teachers as you work in cultivating your creative and spiritual passions and lean into your beginners mind
- assumption of goodwill: as we are in sacred space together, and as a part of our practice of being “hard on systems/soft on people” we'll lean into an assumption of good will, and should harm occur, we will work to rectify as best we can
- spirituality is inherently political: we create this space not to ignore the outside world, but to exist in and with this world and cultivate the resilience, bravery, and reclamation, to take action in the outside world
- creativity and wisdom as revolution: may this space serve as a place for you to be curious, explore joy, lean into your creative potential, repattern your nervous system, reconnect to the magdalene, experience expansion and may it only grow and blossom as you do

I learned the phrase “hard on systems soft on people” from luna dietrich (aka the pussy witch) in their course “dirty and emergent”