

The First Life [Bacteria & Archaea]: 3.5 Billion Years Ago

Draw a shallow Precambrian ocean with tiny, bumpy stromatolite mounds rising from the seafloor – the oldest living structures on Earth.